THE JAPANESE YEW

No family of Evergreens has created such interest in recent times as the Yews. The reason lies in the outstanding merit of the tree in richness of color, which is maintained at all seasons; the variation of form, the ease of training and pruning, the thriftiness of growth and the adaptability to various soils and planting locations. Yews are thoroughly at home in partial or even dense shade and will grow luxuriantly on the north side of buildings, and under the shade of other trees, maintaining their waxy, deep blackish green color.

Plant Bare Root Trees Immediately

Have your ground ready by the time your trees arrive. Do not expose the roots to the air. After unpacking the shipment, put the roots into a tub of water or thin mud and soak them for about one hour. Take out one tree at a time from the tub; then holding the tree in place with one hand, fill the hole about three-fourths full with soil, packing firmly. Water thoroughly, and when it has soaked in fill up the remainder of the hole. Top dress with well rotted barn-yard manure or pulverized sheep manure. DO NOT use Chemical Plant Food on newly planted nursery stock.

WHEN TO TRIM

Spring Blooming Shrubs, such as Spirea V. H. (Bridal Wreath), Lilacs, Forsythia, etc., should be trimmed shortly after they are through blooming. The new branches they produce during the summer provide the blooming wood for the next year's flowers.

Late Summer or Fall Blooming Shrubs should be trimmed before growth starts in the spring. Many varieties such as Hydrangeas, Spirea A. W. and Frobella should be trimmed back to within six inches of the ground . . . this promotes compact growth, profuse bloom and larger flowers.

Shade Trees can be trimmed at any time during the year.
